Our mission is simple. We pray. We tell stories.

As part of our Baranabas Post project, we launched a podcast in 2020 to share personal stories and prayers. We created an online audio resource library where disciplemakers globally can go to be refreshed.

We have found in our missionary experience that many disciplemaking leaders around the world are not truly free to be themselves. They can't be honest about how they feel and what challenges they're facing.

We carved out an online space for our team to be honest and vulnerable, to tell the Truth about the real world of suffering and spiritual warfare in the Great Commission, and to invite you into our conversations with the Holy Spirit as we abide, worship, and pray.
